BACKGROUND Learners take a variety of pathways to achieve their learning outcomes. Learning happens in many different environments and many different ways. All learning should be considered to assure a learner does not have to repeat prior learning. Northern College offers a flexible learning environment to ensure all learning can be assessed to define a learning pathway that continuously moves the learner forward. Factors influencing learner pathways include (but are not limited to) prior learning, including international credentials, accumulation of badges or micro credentials, co-curricular activities, applied research projects, experiential learning opportunities, changes in program offerings, changes in personal goals, breaks in their learning activities, and personal circumstances that interrupt their learning pathway. All pathways will be Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005 (AODA) compliant and seeks to ensure that all Ontarians have fair and equitable access to programs and services and to improve opportunities for persons with disabilities. The Act addresses barriers in Customer Service; Information and Communication; Employment; Transportation; the Design of Public Spaces. POLICY Northern College recognizes the need for flexible pathways and will support learners with individualized choices to achieve learning outcomes. Credit for prior learning may be achieved through prior learning assessment and recognition (PLAR), flexible delivery models may be utilized, different delivery options may be utilized, and/or learners may amend their program of study. All options for learner pathways at Northern are in compliance with provincial standards and Ministry directives. SCOPE <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Applies to all students entering, moving through, or leaving Northern college • Encompasses potential domestic, and international students • Considers prior, current, internal, and external learning • Acknowledges credentials from post-secondary institutions (public and private) apprenticeship and continuing education

DEFINITIONS <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Academic Probation: A student who has a final Grade Point Average (GPA) that is below the minimum program requirement to proceed to the next academic achievement level is required to meet with his/her program Coordinator within one week in order to determine the appropriate terms and conditions that must be met in order for the student to remain in his/her respective program/course. Advanced Standing: A student who gets advanced standing is admitted to a second or higher term or year of a program because of transfer credits granted for courses completed at another institution. www.ONTransfer-Glossary Accreditation: Certification by an external agency or professional regulatory body that an educational program meets its standards. In Canada, educational programs are accredited; institutions are not accredited. www.ONTransfer-Glossary Articulation Agreements: are official agreements between two (bilateral) or more (multilateral) postsecondary institutions that defines the terms and conditions enabling students to transfer between specific programs. Also referred to as “transfer agreements” or “transfer pathways”. www.ONTransfer-Glossary Credential: Refers to academic or educational qualifications, such as degrees or diplomas that a student has completed or partially completed. As approved by the Ministry of Advanced Education and Skills Development (MAESD), colleges may offer the following credentials: Certificate, Ontario College Certificate, Ontario College Diploma, Ontario College Advanced Diploma, Ontario College Graduate Certificate, and Applied Degrees. Credit Transfer/Transfer Credit: Acceptance or recognition of credit by an institution for courses or programs completed at another institution. May apply to core courses deemed equivalent in content or may be used to fulfill optional elective course requirements. www.ONTransfer-Glossary Credit: A unit of value assigned to a course for the purpose of counting its value towards a credential such as a certificate, diploma or degree. The number of credits received by students for a course varies widely among institutions. www.ONTransfer-Glossary

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Course Load – Full-Time VS Part-Time: In order to be considered a full-time student, an individual must be enrolled in a college program of instruction for at least 70 percent (70%) of the student contact hours or 66 2/3 percent (66 2/3 %) of the courses required for the program of instruction in a given semester or reporting period. A student granted advanced standing or an exemption from a course is not considered to be enrolled in the course. NOTE: Students with Disabilities & OSAP: A student who identifies with a disability and who is a recipient of OSAP will be considered a full-time student to OSAP with a (40%-100%) course load. Course Equivalency: Transfer of course credit from one postsecondary institution to another where courses are considered equal in content or academic value. www.ONTransfer-Glossary Course Outlines: A course outline or syllabus also works as a guide for students. By setting course goals and student learning outcomes, you are informing students about the materials they will engage. The schedule also tells students what expectations are expected of them and provides a timeline of these expectations. www.uleth.ca/teachingcentre Continuing Education: Continuing education may include credit and non-credit courses outside traditional post-secondary offerings. Courses are usually offered on a part-time basis, evenings or weekends. Some short courses, seminars, and workshops are offered during the week. Distance Learning: Includes but is not limited to Video conference, Web-Based courses, Correspondence courses, and online learning. Educational Pathways: The individual patterning of education-related transitions throughout the life course (Gorard et al., 1998, 2001; Pallas, 2003). Interruption of studies: A student is either considering or intending to interrupt or suspend study for a specific period of time but intends to resume studies at a future date. Joint delivery: Also known as “collaborative programing”. Delivery that allows students to graduate with both a university and college credential usually in the same amount of time it would take to complete a university program.
